NUMBER 51

Of course we all feel pretty good now that housecleaning is over, but

How much better the dinning room would look with a handsome sideboard.

It gives such a complete finish with its display of silver and china,

And then its cost is paid back every day in satisfaction.

John Nunn and Jim Henry have sideboards to sell awfully low.

A small amount invested in a piece or two for the hall,

Say a hat rack with an umbrella attachment and an easy chair or two.

It makes such a home atmosphere just as you enter the house.

You really feel as if you were just married and was glad of it.

John Nunn and Jim Henry have those pieces of furniture marked away down.

These boys really take a pride in seeing how nice your house looks.

They are all the time wondering why you don't buy one of those lovely divans.

They don't cost much and they fit in so nicely in the parlor corner,

With a big sofa pillow or two they make the room.

Possibly your Lace Curtains are sort of frayed out, anyhow

They look tired and slop around whenever the air passes.

You might look over Nunn & Henry's stock of handsome curtains.

And by the way ask to see the brass mounted iron bedsteads,

And the rattan goods, in chairs and fancy pieces.

And for goodness sake don't forget a hammock or two.

You really ought, now that you have the time

Look over this great big furniture store from the ground floor up,

It will pay you, both in money and that complete satisfied feeling

That you always have after a well cooked dinner nicely served

In a tastefully furnished home.

MINING NEWS.

Great Activity all Along the Line!

Ten Thousand Dollars Paid to Miners Saturday By Three Companies.

"All the work for two seasons past has been confined to preparations, but we are now nearing the point where results will begin to appear and they will be surprising in the extreme to many who have not been watching developments at our Riley mine."—Fols.

A mining man said to us this week: "You can form no idea of what an immense mining camp we are building within the borders of what is known as the Salem district unless you go out there and see for yourself. Why, it looks like Cripple Creek," at the Eagle Fluor Spar Co's mine.

Last Saturday Marion reminded one (who has been there many times) of Joplin and Webb City, Mo. in the Southwest Missouri lead and zinc field. It was pay day here for the Kentucky, the Marion Mineral and the Columbia and these three big companies' payments for the month aggregated nearly ten thousands dollars to the miners. Everybody was happy. Trade was good and things were a-humming all day.

Our Levine correspondent says: Judge Cook, of Hopkinsville, was here several days last week looking after his mining interests. The Judge is well pleased with the developments and doubtless will soon have mineral for the market.

The Roberts company have bought the W. H. LaRue spar and are getting out and hauling from fifteen to twenty tons a day.

Capt Haas, of Salem, spent Friday here hustling about the lumber for the Eagle Fluor Spar company.

It is reported that there was a bad cave-in at the main shaft of the Asbridge mine a short time ago. Several men were at work in the shaft at the time and hearing the timbers cracking they sprang for the bucket and were hoisted out just in time to escape a living grave. Some months ago another big cave-in occurred at this mine in the drift leading towards the Pogue vein, leaving a hole large enough to swallow a good sized house. There is lots of good mineral in the Asbridge yet. The men were sinking at the time of the late accident.

"The mining territory around Marion, as a field of profitable investment, I don't suppose in opportunities was ever equalled. No desirable feature is lacking, and I do not hesitate to predict that more fortunes will be made in this district than in any other mining camp the world has yet produced, and that, too, in the next few years. All it wants is time and money for developing its vast resources."—Capt. Haas.

The Gracey Mining company began work last Monday, sinking a shaft on their lease near Buffalo church in Trigg county. A number of experts, including the state geologist, have thoroughly examined their holdings, and the prospects for lead and zinc are considered the finest in this part of the State.—Cadiz Record.

This is the mine being developed by the Haureys of Marion, formerly of Oakland City, Ind., and it is said to be a fine mining property.

A capitalist of Paducah who recently visited the Greer & Marble syndicate property, known as the "Mountain Lead, Zinc, Fluorspar Co.," remarked to us before departing for home, "When I went in there first the most surprising discovery I made was that the numerous stories I had heard about it were true."

"I think several properties near Mount Difficulty will be on a profit earning basis by fall of the present year, and next season we will have probably half a score of mines that will be actually earning and paying dividends, all within a stone's throw of the Crittenden Springs Hotel, and if not actually on the land of that property."—Watkins.

Back in the 80's, when the mines of Crittenden county were abandoned on account of transportation facilities being in favor of other fields, no one ever dreamed of the development being so general or of such widespread importance by this time. In the recollection of some of the youngest of us a Mr. Healy was in this field from Cincinnati getting out spar, and having it hauled seven miles to the river. Since those days the railroad and the civil engineer and the prospectors have each been busy and as a result of their combined efforts it is now possible with the improved machinery to operate these abandoned mines and to prove their great value as dividend payers, and as a result of these new conditions the public is at last awakening to the fact that an investment in the stock of an up-to-date mine in this field is much safer than many of the so called "gilt edge" industrials, besides giving reasonable promise of profits many times greater, and withal more permanent. So much for the progressive age in which we live.

No one who has not been on the ground can form any conception of the magnitude of the mining enterprises that are being developed in this field. On every hand are evidence of progress and prosperity. Heavy machinery is being hauled and installed in many directions, with Marion as the nucleus; shafts are being sunk, drifts made, and ores taken out in large quantities at many points. At the "9 acres" Blue & Nunn are getting their hoisting plant in shape.

At the great Riley mine tons on top of tons of cumbersome machinery are ready to begin turning its wheels soon; and at the Eagle near Salem the same condition exists. Here the most expensive and latest improved machinery from all points of the compass has been brought together for separating the valuable output of this wonderful mine. All in all, the opening of spring and improved condition of the roads will make things hum here as never before.

Our Sheridan correspondent sends the following:

The Big Four has been working for the past week or two installing the machinery for washing spar. The Big Four mine is one of the best in the county, with fine veins of lead, zinc and spar. W. D. Noe is in charge of the mine and deserves great praise for his excellent judgment.

The Deer Creek mines are running full blast.

Mr Porter, who has been mining with a core drill on the Gus Terry farm, has an excellent prospect. He also has a shaft sunk on Mr. Terry's farm from which he is taking some fine spar.

The Miller mines are still progressing, with Mr. Fred Clement at the wheel, and are installing an immense amount of machinery for the purpose of operating their mines.

Newt Millican received a severe sprain of the ankle last week while mining. His injuries were dressed by Dr. Gardner. Newt is an experienced miner and will be missed by the mining circles while laid up.

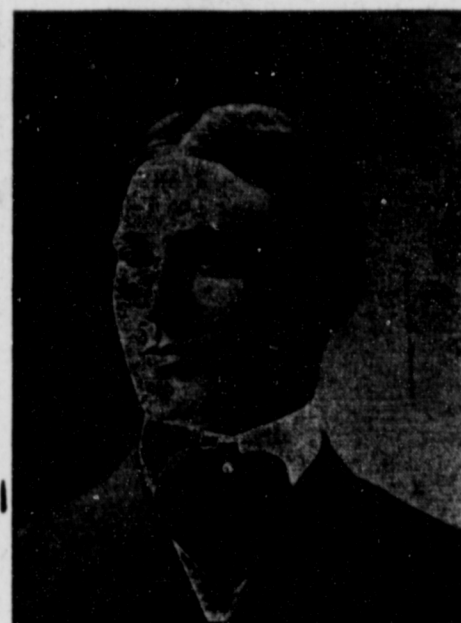

OFFICERS GUARD MINE.

Wheatcroft Coal Shafts Worked Under the Protection of Armed Officers.

Madisonville, May 12.—The coal mines of the Wheatcroft Mining Company at Wheatcroft, in Webster county, where the labor trouble is raging, have been put in operation again, after having been suspended for more than a month. The non-union miners who were shipped in there last week have gone to work, and the union miners who have been displaced by the company adopting non-union labor are idle and are very much wrought up over the present situation.

The union men have notified those who have taken their places to abandon the work at once, and they have threatened to fight for their rights. They state that the company has no cause for such action. These threats have caused some little alarm and in order to protect the property and men from injury a corps of deputy sheriffs and deputy United States marshals have been sent there to do guard duty. The situation is rapidly growing worse. The Wheatcroft Mining company was incorporated under the laws of South Dakota and thus demands Federal protection.

DR. R. J. MORRIS.

Dr. Morris will give a clinic before the Kentucky State Dental Association this week at Louisville on "Exposing Live Tooth," "Extirpating Nerve and Setting Crown at same Sitting." The selection of Dr. Morris is quite a compliment to him. He is one of the few members from the interior of the State to be thus honored, most of the clinics being given by older members, and they usually selected from the most experienced dentists in the larger cities.

WAR IN THE EAST.

Chicago, May 14.—A special from Chee Fou to the Daily News says Admiral Kataoka's fleet, the third Japanese squadron, began a fierce bombardment of the defenses of Dainay this morning. The land batteries were speedily silenced.

Russian troops were again seen in the neighborhood and driven out of their position by shells. Under the cover of the fire from the ships troops were landed and a combined attack on the city was undertaken. The town is now in possession of the Japanese.

As far as it was possible to ascertain, the armored cruiser Yakumo, four other cruisers, one gunboat, and one battleship have cleared the channel and entered the harbor shortly after daylight and began a heavy fire, which was still in progress at noon.

It is estimated that 20,000 Japanese troops are investing the town. There is every reason to believe they delivered the assault this afternoon and are now in possession of the city.

Shan Hai Kwan, May 14.—A report of a severe engagement in the hills around Hsin Yen Thursday has been received here. It lacks verification, but according to it the Russians lost 1500 men killed and wounded and the Japanese occupied the town of Hsin Yen.

LETTER FROM PADUCAH.

PADUCAH, KY., May 15, 1904.—ED. PRESS: My old home paper. I will write you a little news about the deaths here.

Saturday, the 14th, Mr. Herman Weil dropped dead while listening to some music on Third street near Broadway, where coronor Peal held an inquest. The verdict was death from heart failure.

Hugh Craft and W. W. Roark died of heart failure and a little boy, while playing at the basket factory on a tram track fell off and ran a stick through his body and died in a short time.

There was lots of people in the city yesterday. They are fixing for the street carnival Monday. Mr. Editor, I have got my paper o. k. I felt as though I was lost without it. I love to read the county news of Crittenden.

As this is my first letter I will close and come again.

Yours truly,

Hal Turner.

No Comparison There.

Congressman Ollie James and wife were at Seelbach's Hotel in Louisville last night. M. James, of course, is very popular; but when the people see his beautiful young wife he will be more popular, for there is no comparison in her beauty and his good looks. —Mayfield Messenger.

CAVE-IN-ROCK.

Married Sunday, May 14, 1904, Truman E. Scott, 31 and Maud E. Paris, 20, Rev J. A. Carwile officiating. The bride is the eldest daughter of Dr W. J. Paris and wife and is well known in Marion.

The groom is a Crittenden county boy, but grew up in this county. He is senior member of the firm of Scott Bros., who own and publish the Independent Star at Elizabethtown, own a third interest in a large general store at Lambtown, Ill., and are partners of Ledbetter Bros. in their great grain and milling business at Cave-in-Rock and Elizabethtown. He is business manager of the Cave-in-Rock mills, is a man of unimpeachable character, who began business for himself at the age of seventeen by teaching. At that time he was penniless and had the care of three invalids, father, mother, and grandmother, besides two young brothers and little sister. He has buried one brother, the father and grandmother, and raised a brother and sister. The sister recently married a well to do young farmer and they are all in easy circumstances. His mother has been heard to say, "Freeman never displeased me."

Seldom do we see a young couple begin life with brighter prospects. May God bless them!

Dr Paris took Mr. John A. Oxford, our assessor and county treasurer, to St Marys hospital, Evansville, for treatment last week. The doctor was taken sick on the way and had to go to the hospital himself. He returned Thursday but Mr. Oxford will remain two or three weeks. He is in a serious condition.

Rev Carwile of Ava, Ill., has been called as pastor of the Baptist church at this place at a salary of two hundred dollars a year.

J M Carr and Mrs Julia Kennedy were married on the 12th instant.

Miss Maud Gill has purchased the millinery business of Miss Bettie Ledbetter. We gladly welcome Miss Maud to our town.

Work and Be Happy; Be Idle and Be Miserable.

Valedictory Address of Henry J. Wadlington as Delivered at the Commencement Exercises of Marion Graded School on Saturday Night, May 7, 1904.

God did not make us and place us in this world to be idle. Our vocation here is to do. Our very happiness depends on how and what we can perform. Whatever, therefore, is rightly done augments the sum of happiness, softens the dark shades of sorrow and brightens the varied colorings of delight. All life images itself forth to the active mind as a task, a glorious work to be achieved. It is in contemplation as though a world was to be created out of rude chaotic elements to be beautified and enriched by the outgoings of thought.

We are all our own sculptors, or to speak in the words of the poet, "carvers of our own fortunes." Like the sculptors or painters of old who carved or painted not for the present, we are carving or painting for eternity. Every mark of the chisel of habit deforms or beautifies; every stroke of the brush of passion either softens or makes harsh. Untiredly, unceasingly, with cunningest art and finest models, we must work if we would embody a shape of simple majesty or Godlike aspect worthy the admiration of angels and a place in the halls of Heaven. To be successful and happy in any sphere of life, no matter how proud or how humble, we have only to put forth the requisite efforts. No truth is more legibly inscribed upon the broad volume of nature, and none more certain to be learned from their records of human experience than this: "Work and be happy; be idle and be miserable." Like all great truths of a practical order, it has a grand simplicity; it appears upon the very surface of things, and yet extends into their deepest depths. The world—the thousand worlds above those seemingly star points in the boundless blue; nay, the millions of worlds that roll through immensity, in their magnificent orbs and splendor, shadowing forth the glory of God, are but one ever ongoing work, a mighty effort of infinite skill, wisdom and strength. When God out of wild and confused chaos brought order and beauty, suspended on high yon shining vault; when he cleft the pathway of the rivers through mountain barriers of living rock—those high monarchs of the hills, towering into the sky with their glittering diadems of ice and snow; when he made the mighty ocean retire to its own bed and subjected, as it is said, its proud waves to the silvery queen of night, when he wove the gorgeous vesture of nature, rich in its embroidering of leaf and flower, when he gave to us the far reaching powers of thought and iron energy of will, and made men sovereigns of this glorious earth, fresh from his hands and bright with his presence, He intended that this being formed in his own image should be like himself, a creator, and copy him as far as possible in his wondrous work.

It is not man's mission, lulled in the lap of idle delight, to court inglorious ease, shunning difficulty and danger, suffering and strenuous exertion, but to subdue the sterile soil, to hew down the forests, level the mountains, bridge the lightning, perforate the Alps, plow over the ocean billows, mastering the elements and rendering them subservient to his will. While woman as part and the last of God's creation, must quarry out the golden ore of truth and virtue carving it into beautiful forms, and as she receives it stamped from the mind of Heaven, circulate it as current coin to reward man for his arduous labors; in a word to embody into her life a "God's best gift to man," all this is truly good and truthful.

Classmates, our destiny is glorious only as it is to be won by our imitation of our "Master," who "went about doing good." The sun-browned plowman, the sturdy mechanic, or the student is a far nobler being than the idle gentleman. He is in harmony with the course of nature which is but one continued round of mighty exertion. His spirit, unpolished though it be, chimes in with the universal life spirit which he beholds weaving the soft vesture of spring the golden tissued robe of summer, or giving to autumn its varied or mottled hues. There is a genuine nobleness of soul in his upward striving and a stubborn virtue in his honest endeavors. Such are the men who have stood dauntless upon the battle field, against the dread array of power, and sealed with the purest blood that ever flowed the sacred charter of liberty. Such were the men that first climbed the rugged steep of the Alleghenies and from their lofty summits surveyed the goodly land which spread out before them with all of its fair and inviting prospects, and with rifle in one hand and ax in the other began that conflict with the forest and with its rude and savage sons which has succeeded in securing for us the richest heritage upon which the broad fall of the sun has ever shone.

The working woman is the only true woman, the only woman of whom there is hope in this or any other world. Life is a procession, a gradual and successive unfolding of great and mysterious powers, but if she is a dead weight on its progress, implanted by God in the fertile mind, she cramps and destroys. Around her is a beautiful world, alive with action, glorious with intelligence, but she communes not with its forms, she enters not into its spirit. Her heart is not aroused by the thronging, earnest multitudes around her, which are rushing around like some huge billow, heaving herself, and other useless rubbish—unsightly things, on its bright bosom towards the shores of eternity.

Classmates, our plain duty to ourselves, to Marion's people, her school, its trustees and its teachers, especially for Prof. Evans, who has for the three past years used his most strenuous endeavors and persistent efforts to embody into our very beings all that is conducive to better manhood and womanhood, and whom we know must and would feel his cheeks to burn with shame if in the future he should note that any of our class had become engaged in idleness, and who would greatly rejoice to see us holding before us the highest standard of excellence and striving to attain them, thus thanking him a thousand times, far nobler for the grand assistance he has rendered us throughout our tedious course of study than any of our poor words could express, is to stand upon the side of right and truth, to urge unceasing war against the communistic ideas of the day, which lead to anarchism; to keep alive the spirit of ancient heroism among men; that spirit that yields not to any toil and suffering; that quails not at any danger; that proposes to itself great ends to be attained by strictly honorable means, to cherish all that strengthens the virtues of a people, or that adorns life, infusing into public opinion a deep sense of holiness and justice. Our duty also is to accept whatever is profound in thought or beautiful in expression; whatever richness of splendor, of wisdom, is treasured in the lore of the present or of the "golden times;" whatever is refined in taste or elegant in art; whatever can throw a spell over the heart or merit the attention, tell on the conduct of men by awakening in them pure emotions, furnishing them with current principles, and inspiring them with reverence for the religion of Jesus Christ, in its wonderful doctrines and mysteries, its weighty precepts, and its grace bestowing and life giving ordinances, while at the same time we must strive to keep the standard of the excellence of womanhood far above the tendency of the present age, which is calculated in the larger cities to grant to woman many of the follies permitted to the sterner sex.

Now, classmates, as we mingle with each other, our teacher, our friends and others this evening, bidding them a last farewell, as classmates and as students, let it be our sincere desire and prayer to Almighty God that we may meet in the future to clasp hands and say that our motto, "No footsteps backward," has not been violated, but that it has been a beacon light to our every success.

Doesn't Respect Old Age.

It's shameful when youth fails to show proper respect for old age, but just the contrary in the case of Dr. King's New Life Pills. They cut off maladies no matter how severe and irrespective of old age. Dyspepsia, jaundice, fevers, constipation all yield to this perfect Pill. 25c. at Woods & Orme's drug store.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Washington Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., May 12 1904.—My wife says I am usually a good natured man, but when you ask me for news from Washington after Congress has adjourned, why then—I seek relief at the blessed fountain of Helicon, which, if it fail to cheer, does not often inebriate:

The news? There's never news in this,

Our summer holiday.

O, doesn't the correspondent miss

The winter blithe and gay!

For fashion drains her hemlock

cup

In splendid disarray,

And stocks are down and blinds

are up

When Congress is away

Anon our people eat and drink;

Anon the golfers play;

And in adjacent towns, I think,

The robins pipe their lay;

So call us fly and lively if

You don't care what you say,

But it does make a mighty difference when Congress is away.

Yet in a city of 300,000 a fraction being owned by every villager and every farmer in the entire country, something is all the while occurring that may be said to be of general interest.

John Rowlands, alias Sir Henry M. Stanley, is dead at the age of sixty-four. He was once the Herald's correspondent here and honored the newspaper corps by occupying a seat in the press gallery of the Senate. He was looked upon as an enterprising and dashingly fellow, not otherwise remarkable. After he had won fame I met him one day in New York. He was greatly embittered by the results of a lecture tour he had made through the West, where, in Detroit chiefly, I think, he was insulted by public expression of unbelief in his achievements. One of his auditors had arisen and said: "Sir, you are an adventurer and a charlatan. You have never been to Central Africa, and your travels exist only in your imagination." The audience applauded. This to the man who had overcome insurmountable perils and had found Livingstone, and had received the grateful thanks of the Queen in a golden casket! "I'll be damned if I'll ever lecture in America again," he exclaimed in my presence, and I believe he never did. It is but fair to add that this American incredulity originated in the previous insolent and derisive repudiation of Stanley by the British Geographical Society, mainly because he was an American. Stanley was afterwards knighted by the Queen, married Gladstone's great pat in Westminster Abbey, and was taken up and made much of by the British nobility. But he never cut a wide

The administration is spending a good deal of time and energy now in preparing to build the Panama canal. The $40,000,000 having been paid to the canal company and the $10,000,000 to Panama and the result having been acquiesced in by practically the whole world—for even Columbia has sent her Minister back to Washington, the real work will now begin. Gea Davis, governor of the canal zone will proceed under the general supervision of the Secretary of War. It is estimated that in three years reasonable sanitation will be established and the survey will be finished and the contracts let. Something like $25,000,000 a year will be spent for the next ten years. It is odd that this is practically the estimate made by the old French company thirty years ago.

Who can not stand the shocking strain of laxative syrups and cathartic pills are especially fond of Little Early Risers. All persons who find it necessary to take a liver medicine should try these easy pills, and compare the agreeably pleasant and strengthening effect with the nauseating and weakening conditions following the use of other remedies. Little Early Risers cure biliousness, constipation, sick headache, jaundice, malaria and liver troubles. Sold by all druggists.

Woman's Work is Never Done.

"Please state to the court exactly what you did between eight and nine o'clock on Wednesday morning," said the lawyer to the delicate looking little woman on the witness stand.

"Well," she said, after a moment's reflection, "I washed my two children and got them ready for school and sewed a button on Johnnie's coat and mended a rent in Nellie's dress. Then I tidied up my sitting room and watered my house plants and glanced over the morning paper. I dusted the parlor and set things to rights in it and washed my lamp chimneys and combed the baby's hair and sewed a button on one of her little shoes and then I swept out the front entry and brushed and put away the children's Sunday clothes, and wrote a note to Johnnie's teacher asking her to excuse him for not being at school on Friday. Then I fed my canary bird and gave the groceryman an order and swept off the back porch. Then I sat down and rested a few minutes before the clock struck 9. That's all!"—Pittsburg G. zette.

Not a Sick Day Since.

"I was taken severely sick with kidney trouble. I tried all sorts of medicines, none of which relieved me. One day I saw an ad. of your Electric Bitters and determined to try that. After taking a few doses I felt relieved, and soon thereafter was entirely cured, and have not seen a sick day since. Neighbors of mine have been cured of rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney troubles and general debility." This is what B. F. Bass, of Fremont, N. C., writes. Only 50c. at Woods & Orme's.

BAPTIST CHURCH ORGANIZED

On Tuesday morning, May 3rd, a large crowd gathered at the school house in Panshandle, Livingston county, to witness and assist in the organization of a church by the Baptists of that community.

The meeting was called to order by Bro E. M. Eaton, who in a few pointed remarks gave some excellent reasons why a Baptist church should be organized at that place. Bro R. A. Larue was the elected moderator of the presbytery, the writer clerk, and visiting brethren and sisters invited to assist.

Smithland church was represented by pastor Newbern, Bros R. B. Cowper, George M. Wilson, Cone Taylor and sister Taylor. Mint Spring by the writer; gum Spring by T. J. Ward, Ab Cooper, L. Co. thorn; Dyer Hill by W. E. Abel and Robt Spees; Deer Creek by Bro W. R. Gibbs; Union, Bro R. A. LaRue.

Presbytery having been formed, Bro Gibbs preached from 1st Tim 3:15. The speaker was at his best and clearly and forcibly set forth the principles of Baptist doctrine taught by the Bible.

At 12:30 adjourned for dinner on the grounds, and truly it was a dinner worthy of the occasion; a variety of everything good; more than enough for all and perfect order.

At 2 p m the meeting was called to order, and began the examination of the letters, and finding them satisfactory the names of the members were ordered placed on the new church book.

The Articles of Faith and the Church Covenant were read and adopted. Then by motion and second the presbytery recognized the new body as a church.

The new church will be known as "The Ohio Valley Baptist Church," and is organized with 30 charter members. The church Elected Bro Reed Barnes clerk; Bro Willie Eaton was elected deacon and ordained, Bro Newbern delivering the charge.

By motion and second the clerk was requested to forward for publication a copy of the day's proceedings to the Livingston Banner, Crittenden Press and Western Recorder.

At 4 p m adjourned.

A Cure For Piles.

"I had a bad case of piles," says G. F. Carter, of Atlanta, Ga., "and consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. I purchased a box and was entirely cured. It is splendid for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled for its healing qualities. Eczema and other skin diseases, also sores, cuts, burns and wounds of every kind are quickly cured by it. Sold by all druggists.

Frankfort, Ky., May 10.—At today's session of the Appellate Court Judge Nunn delivered an opinion affirming a judgement of the Ohio Circuit Court in a case of A. B. Schlitzbaum against the Commonwealth. The case is quite a noted one in the section from which it comes, the judgment appealed from sentencing appellant to confinement for one year in the state penitentiary. Schlitzbaum was convicted on an indictment charging embezzlement of money of the Illinois Central Railroad Company, in which company he was an agent.

$51.75 to Los Angeles or San Francisco, Cal., and return from April 23 to May 1, inclusive. The ILLINOIS CENTRAL will sell tickets from Evansville to Los Angeles or San Francisco, Cal., and return, at the very low rate of $51.75. These tickets will be good returning until June 30, 1904.

You have the privilege of going via one route and returning via another, if desired, without additional cost, except that if return route is desired via Portland, it will cost $11. extra.

Liberal stopover privileges will be allowed both on going and return trip.

OBITUARY.

Mr Samuel Edward Brasher, of Tiline, Ky., one of the oldest citizens, has been called from earth to live with the holy ones above.

Uncle Sam was born March 12, 1850. In 1871, Dec 10th, he married Miss Mary Elizabeth Banton In 1873, in a revival held at the old Cypress school house, by Rev Will Pack he professed religion, and later joined the Graves Chapel church.

Eight children were born to bless the home, five of whom survive him. Messrs Charlie, Clarence, Sammie and Henry Brasher and Miss Nettie Brasher, and also their mother.

We know that death comes but once, and if our Heavenly Father was willing to take the life of his only begotten Son that the world might be saved, surely we ought to be willing to submit to the Death Angel's call, when he is sent by our most Gracious Father to take one of our loved ones from earth to glory.

It is hard indeed, but let us trust in the promise of again meeting where parting is no more. Let us lift up "holy hands" and say, "Not my will, O God, but thine be done."

Let your hearts be watchful unto prayer, that when you are called you may be as Uncle Sam said; "Jesus is good; it's a great thing to be in the hands of the Lord."

You see the vacant chair around the family circle, at the table; you miss his loving voice and caresses his friends miss his hearty greetings. Yet God knew best; and may his death be sanctified to the salvation of the entire family.

Disastrous Wrecks.

Carelessness is responsible for many a railway wreck and the same causes are making human wrecks of sufferers from throat and lung troubles. But since the advent of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, even the worst cases can be cured, and hopeless resignation is no longer necessary. Mrs. Lois Cragg of Dorchester, Mass., is one of many whose life was saved by Dr. King's New Discovery. This great remedy is guaranteed for all throat and lung diseases by Woods & Orme. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free.

SCATTER THE SUNSHINE.

We do not know the author of these words, but they are worthy of preservation, and if your soul is not as warm as it should be, possibly the following lines may warm it;

"Do not keep the alabaster boxes of your love and tenderness sealed up until your friends are dead. Fill their lives with sweetness. Speak approving words while their ears can hear them, and while their hearts can be thrilled and made happier. The kind things you mean to say when they are gone, say before they are gone. The flowers you mean to send to their coffins send to brighten their homes, before they leave them. If my friends have alabaster boxes laid away, full of fragrant perfume and affection, that they intended to break over my corpse, I would much rather have them in my troubled hours, and open them, that I may be refreshed and cheered while I need them. I would rather have a plain coffin without a flower, a funeral without an eulogy, than the life without the sweetness of love and sympathy. Let us learn to anoint our friends beforehand for the burial. Post mortem kindness does not cheer the burdened spirit. Flowers on the coffin cast no sweet fragrance back over the road of trouble.

Druggists

Do not hesitate to recommend Kodol Dyspepsia Cure to their friends and customers. Indigestion causes more ill health than anything else. It deranges the stomach and brings on all manner of disease. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat, cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but a tissue building tonic as well. Renewed health, perfect strength and increased vitality follow its use.

YOUR KIDNEYS ARE THEY WELL?

Unless they are, good health is impossible.

Every drop of blood in the body passes through and is filtered by healthy kidneys every three minutes. Sound kidneys strain out the impurities from the blood, diseased kidneys do not, hence you are sick. FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE makes the kidneys well so they will eliminate the poisons from the blood. It removes the cause of the many diseases resulting from disordered kidneys which have allowed your whole system to become poisoned.

Rheumatism, Bad Blood, Gout, Gravel, Dropsy, Inflammation of the Bladder, Diabetes and Bright's Disease, and many others, are all due to disordered Kidneys. A simple test for Kidney disease is to set aside your urine in a bottle or glass for twenty-four hours. If there is a sediment or a cloudy appearance, it indicates that your kidneys are diseased, and unless something is done they become more and more affected until Bright's Disease or Diabetes develops.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is the only preparation which will positively cure all forms of Kidney and Bladder troubles, and cure you permanently. It is a safe remedy and certain in results.

If you are a sufferer, take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE at once. It will make you well.

Some Pronounced Incurable

Mr. G. A. Stillson, a merchant of Tampico, Ill., writes: "FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE is meeting with wonderful success. It has cured some cases here that physicians pronounced incurable. I myself am able to testify to its merits. My face today is a living picture of health and FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE has made it such."

Had Lumbago and Kidney Trouble

Edward Huss, a well known business man of Salisbury, Mo., writes: "I wish to say for the benefit of others, that I was a sufferer from lumbago and kidney trouble, and all the remedies I took gave me no relief. I began to take FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE, and after the use of three bottles I am cured."

CHOICE MISCELLANY

A Novel Railroad.

A railroad whose trains never stop throughout their journey is projected in the plans of a Belgian scientist who has recently proposed a new transportation scheme. The plan is decidedly revolutionary and aims to save the time consumed in the case of ordinary railroads in letting off and taking on passengers at stations. The new trains as planned will consist of cars propelled by separate motors and will work, says a writer in Harper's Weekly, in the following manner: "When a station is approached the passengers and baggage for that station are moved into the rear car, which is cut off just before the point is reached. The passengers desirous of boarding the train take their places in a car on a siding at the station, which proceeds to the main track at full speed and catches the passenger train, to which it is coupled and the passengers and baggage transferred. Those for the next station are then received, and in turn the car is duly dropped. The scheme is most fantastic and at present impracticable, yet it must be admitted that many of the elements necessary, such as the separate motors, which can be controlled together or individually, are already developed."

The Specialized Mechanic.

Is the multiplication of machinery making specialists of workmen in restricted lines? Is it tending to put the old time versatile mechanic out of business?

"Look at the carpenter's trade," says Egbert Watson in the Engineering Magazine. "It is no longer necessary for the carpenter to plow out moldings and house 'trim' generally. Mills supply such details at a tithe of the expense and of uniform quality throughout. Sashes and blinds, doors, winding stair treads, transoms, everything required in a house almost, is delivered at the carpenter shop ready to hang. The same is true of boiler making. Details of all kinds that formerly had to be hand made can be purchased in open market. With the advent of hydraulic flanging the most difficult and critical work the boilermaker had to execute by hand is now delivered as per blue print furnished exactly to dimensions. All this is of benefit to every one except the man who has to sell manual dexterity."

How the Japs Record Time.

The Japanese divide the twenty-four hours into twelve periods, of which six belong to the night and six to the day, their day beginning at sunrise and ending at sunset. Whether the day or night be long or short, there are always six periods in each.

To attain this the characters or numerals on the scale of their timepieces are adjustable. Two of them are set, one to agree with the sunrise, the other with sunset, and the four characters between them divide the space into equal portions. Thus when the period of daylight is longer than the night the day hours will be proportionately longer than those at night. Another peculiarity in their scale is that they use only six characters, those from 4 to 9, and those read backward instead of forward.

Wrote to Mr. Hume.

A popular British weekly has just discovered the existence of a novelist named J. Fenimore Cooper and writes of his "Pathfinder" as the work of a promising author. A London daily is better informed and ironically observes that Mr. Cooper is "now well over his hundredth year" and is engaged on another book which, as at present arranged, will be entitled, "The Last of the Mohicans." Americans, however, need not be in haste to jeer. It is not very long since a school superintendent in a thriving town of the middle west wrote to a historian named Hume to ask him to make some changes in his history of England which would fit it for classroom use. Later he expressed some surprise that his politely worded request had elicited no reply.—Springfield Republican.

AN OLD FAIRY TALE.

A Spring Night.

BY O. G. W.

The moon, like a ship of silver,
Sails o'er blue leagues of air.
Full of the subtlest fragrance
From a spring world, hidden and fair,
That sleeps like a princess enchanted
In a palace costly and rare.
Hasten, O fairy hero,
Enter the forest of dreams;
Whisper, the flowers are budding,
Hearken the flow of the streams
Waken her fully; 'tis spring-time
Lovely with shadows and gleams

A Positive Necessity.

Having to lay upon my bed for 14 days from a severely bruised leg, I only found relief when I used a bottle of Ballard's Snow Liniment. I can cheerfully recommend it as the best medicine for bruises ever sent to the afflicted. It has now become a positive necessity upon myself. D. R. Byrnes, Merchant, Droversville, Texas. 25c., 50c., $1.00. Sold by Woods and Orme.

Canadian Millionaires.

Lord Strathcona, the Canadian high commissioner in London, has, according to Mr. James Lumsden in his work "Westward," a fortune estimated at no less than $125,000,000. Lord Mount Stephen, who commenced life as a pioneer in western Canada, is worth $75,000,000, and Mr. Ross of Montreal is the possessor of a like amount. Mr. Reid, known in Canada as Czar Reid, is accredited with a fortune of $50,000,000.

Millions in Cultivation of Roses.

In the growing of cut flowers the greatest advances have been made with roses, carnations and violets. There are now annually sold in this country $6,000,000 to $7,000,000 worth of cut roses. This represents something like 100,000,000 or 125,000,000 flowers. The growing of roses as an industry has developed especially in the vicinity of our largest cities, such as New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.—World's Work.

MARION WOOLEN MILLS

WILL BEGIN BUSINESS MAY 1.

They have in their employ a wool comber of 45 years experience and will guarantee first class work on first class material, and will replace same on return of roles to our mill where fault is due to our neglect or carelessness. A $25.00 Bed Room Suite will be given away. Every customer of Marion Woolen Mills will get a free draw at this suite for every 10 pounds of wool to be carded and those who buy their roles from us to the amount of 2 pounds of first class wool at 40 cts. per pound or 4 pounds second class at 20 cts. per pound. There will be a committee of three disinterested men who shall seal a number between 1 and 1,000 and hold that number until December 1, 1904, when the contest shall close. Even the committee will not know what the lucky number is.

Two will choose 12 numbers, place them in a cigar box, shak them well, place them on a table, blindfold the third man who is holding an envelope. They lead him to the box, then the other two will take their seats in the rear of the room. The man who wears the hood-wink will raise the lid, draw one of the 12 tickets, placing it in the envelope and sealing it. He will then close the lid to the box, remove the hood-wink, take the box and remaining tickets and place them in the fire, burn them up. One thousand tickets will be placed in envelopes same as lucky number and placed in shoe case. Customers will draw one envelope from the case, place his name on envelope and drop in ballot box, keys to to which are held by the committee, which will be opened on closing day of contest by the committee. The one holding same number as held by committee gets the suite free. Not a living soul will know what the lucky number is until close of contest and opened by the committee, who will take and carefully examined customers' numbers. All who ship or send their wool shall get a draw.

Whooping Cough.

"In the spring of 1901 my children had whooping cough," says Mrs. D. W. Capps, of Capps, Ala. "I used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with the most satisfactory results. I think this is the best remedy I have ever seen for whooping cough." This remedy keeps the cough loose, lessens the severity and frequency of the coughing spells and counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. For sale by Woods & Orme.

STARR,

Our bachelor friend has just bought a new dinner bell and now we want to suggest that he should while ringing it, ring for two, For what is life upon the farm Without a partner, arm-in-arm.

Lige Carley and family, of Forest Grove, visited relatives here the second Sunday.

Mrs Mattie Woodall is in very delicate health.

Mrs Nellie Stovall has been very sick for several days.

OUR OLD KENTUCKY HOME.

Spring is here in all of her beauty and splendor: and Old Kentucky, with her green fields, her boundless forests, running brooks, delightful climate, inexhaustible mineral resources, and her many varieties of farm products, such as corn, wheat, oats, tobacco, hemp, and all the field grasses, makes her an ideal State. Her fine horses, cattle, sheep and swine, are now finding a ready pasture on her hills, and in her valleys, and she stands among the first States of the Union in the production of fine stock. Her rivers and railroads bring us within easy reach of the best markets in the world.

And as to truck gardening, we grow the potato, cabbage, onions, melons of all kinds. Among the fruits we have the apple, peach, cherry, plum, strawberry, gooseberry, raspberry blackberry, and other varieties too numerous to mention. What is the matter with Kentucky? Oh, she is all right. Then we have the finest timber that grows in the Mississippi valley, and as some one has said, we lose millions of dollars every year by not having hogs to eat the mast and our rivers and creeks abound with the finest of fish, from the smallest to the largest, and all they will cost is the sport of catching them.

Every State has its advantages and disadvantages, and when we think of our state and its variety of products, its healthful climate, its kind and generous people, its schools and churches, and the many environments thrown around us for our good and our pleasure; then why are we leaving our kindred, our friends, our dear Old Kentucky Home.

Duke Haynes, of Deland, Florida, reached the city last week accompanied by his mother, who will remain during the summer with her sons, H. A. Haynes and R. F. Haynes, of this city. Duke, after spending a few days here with his brothers, will return to his Florida home, but may probably take in the World's Fair at St. Louis before returning. He will also visit Louisville before his return South. He is looking the picture of health, and his many friends are indeed glad to see him here once more.

The meeting of the Episcopal Council of the diocese of Kentucky for the transaction of business took place at Grace church in Hopkinsville on May 16th. There were about one hundred delegates present, including ministers, almost every parish in the diocese being represented. The afternoon of the 17th was devoted to the election of a successor to Bishop Dudley, Rev. John G.
Murray, of Baltimore, being elected on the second ballot. Of the clergy, Mr.
Murray had 11, Dr. Mason 5, and Dr.
Loyd 2. Of the laity, Mr. Murray received 17 and Dr. Mason 4. Dr. Mason spoke, thanking his friends, and moved that the nomination be made unanimously, which was done.

Rev. R. E. C. Lawson, pastor of the Second Presbyterian church at Henderson, is conducting a most interesting meeting at the Presbyterian church in this city, and his sermons are enjoyed by all who have the pleasure and privilege of listening to them. Last Sunday morning his sermon was pronounced by many to have been the strongest ever delivered in Marion. His text was taken from Deuteronomy 32 chapter, 11 verse: "As an eagle stirreth up her nest, fluttereth over her young, spreadeth abroad her wings, taketh them, boasteth them on her wings," and it was delivered in a way to enthuse his audience and he received many congratulations. Monday there was nine additions to the church, and Tuesday, two others, and the interest continues. The church, since being carpeted and papered, is as cozy and attractive as any church need be, and it is indeed a treat to get there and hear Mr. Lawson. Marion does not often have within her limits a speaker of such magnetism, and those who fail to hear him are indeed missing an opportunity of a lifetime.

MARION DRAMATIC CLUB!

On Friday night, last, the Marion Dramatic Club made its first appearance to the public. The Club is composed of Misses Birdie McNeely, Leaffa Wilborn and Deanie Williams, Messrs.
Roy Gilbert, David Driskill, Healy Cochran and Ira Pierce, and is under the stage direction of Mr. and Mrs. W.
T. Robson, who are professionals and artists in their line.

They presented that beautiful drama
in five acts, entitled "Roanoke," a play dealing with life in Old Virginia, and one that appeals strongly to one's gentler self, handling it in such a veteran-like manner as to bring applause after applause from the strong-hearted, while the more tender were brought to tears.
Each individual did exceedingly well, displaying, as they did, the ease and grace of old-timers, and each carrying his or her particular role in a cool, steady, self-confident manner that surpassed even the fondest hopes of their friends.

From a dramatic point of view, the undertaking was a brilliant success, and we think the Club should not only have the endorsement, but the hearty support of the citizens of Marion, for the training these young people are receiving gives them a graceful bearing, fluent speech, and relieves them of that embarrassment which so often hinders one when speaking in public.

On Tuesday night of next week they will put on "Davy Crockett," and, judging the future by the past, we feel no delicacy in assuring you that if you attend you will find it well worth the time and money.

The Bell, or Nature's Music

A Fairy Tale

By HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN

IN the narrow streets of a large city, toward evening, when the setting sun threw a golden light over roof and chimney, there might sometimes be heard by one and another a strange tone, something like the sound of a church bell, only for a moment, however, for the continual rumbling of carriages and the hum of voices often drowned the tone. Still, people would say, "The evening bell is sounding, for it is sunset." Those who wandered outside the town after sunset, where the houses stood at greater distances from each other, could see the evening sky in all its beauty and hear the sound of the bell much more clearly. It was as if the tones came from a cathedral lying in the still depths of the fragrant forest, and people looked in that direction with solemnized feelings.

After some time one said to another: "Is there a church in the wood yonder? That bell has a singularly fine tone. Shall we go a little nearer and listen?" And the rich people drove there, and the poor walked, but the way seemed long and interminable, for they were no nearer to the tones of the bell. By a number of willow trees which grew on the borders of the forest they sat down and glanced up at the long branches and fancied they were really in the greenwood. A pastry cook from the town came among them and pitched a tent, and then came another and hung a bell over his tent, which he had covered with tar to protect it from the rain, but the clapper was wanting. When the people returned home they said it had been all very romantic, which was really more than merely taking tea. Three persons, however, declared that they had been to the distance and had a very different sound from the one that touched men's hearts so deeply. He who spoke thus was a king's son, and the others said that persons of that sort always wanted to be thought wiser than any one else. Therefore they allowed him to go on alone.

Something rustled in the bushes, and a little boy stood before the king's son. He wore wooden shoes, and his jacket was so small that the sleeves did not reach to his wrists. They knew each other. The boy was one of those who had been confirmed, but who could not accompany the rest because he had to return home with the coat and boots (which the landlord's son had lent him). He had done this and had started again in his wooden shoes and his old clothes, for he had heard the bell sound so deeply and solemnly that he felt he must go on.

"We can go together," said the king's son.

But the poor newly-confirmed boy in the wooden shoes was quite ashamed. He pulled down the short sleeves of his jacket and said he feared he could not walk fast enough; besides, he remarked, the bell should be sought for on the right hand, for there the space was larger and more beautiful.

"Then we shall not meet again," said the king's son, nodding to the poor boy as he went into the deepest depths of the forest, where the branches tore his poor, shabby clothes and scratched his face, his hands and his feet till they bled.

The king's son also had a few rough scratches, but the sun shone brightly on his path, and it is he whom we must follow, for he was an active youth. "I must and will find the bell," very end of the wood. They had always heard the sound of the bell, but it appeared to them as if it came from the town.

The emperor was informed of this matter and promised that whoever really found out what the sound came from should have the title of "bell-ringer of the world," even if it should prove that there was no bell in the case.

On a certain day a confirmation was held at a church in the town. The clergyman spoke well and earnestly, and the candidates were deeply moved. It was a very important day for them. From children they at once became grown people. The childish soul seemed to have assumed the sense and feeling of mature age. It was a glorious summer day, and as the confirmed children walked out of the town there sounded from the deep wood the great mysterious bell. A wish arose to go and see what it was in all of them excepting three. One of these was a poor boy who had borrowed the coat and boots of his landlord's son to be confirmed in, and he had to return by a certain time. The others stepped on, while the sun shone, the birds sang, and the newly confirmed sang also and held each other's hand, for they had not yet any position in life, but were all equal in the eyes of God that day of their confirmation. And when at last they reached the willow trees, where the confectioner's tent was pitched, they said: "Now we are really a long way out. There is no bell. It does not exist at all. People only fancy it."

Then suddenly the bell sounded so beautifully and solemnly that four or five determined to go still deeper into the forest. The trees grew so closely together and the leafy branches hung down so low that it was really very difficult to go forward.

They came to a cottage built with the bark of trees and branches. A large tree loaded with wild apples stretched itself over the roof, which was covered with roses, as if it would pour a blessing upon it. The long branches drooped just over the gable, and to the end of one hung a little bell. Could this be the bell they had heard? They all with one voice agreed that it must be, excepting one, who said that this bell was too small to be heard at such a said he, "though I have to go to the end of the world for it."

He went on undaunted, deeper and still deeper into the forest, where the most wonderful flowers grew—white lilies like stars, with ruby-red stamens; tulips as blue as the sky, sparkling as they were moved by the wind. The sun went down; the atmosphere reflected the red light from the sky like fire; silence reigned in the forest. Then he sank on his knees and sang his evening hymn. "I shall never find what I am seeking," he said. "The sun is going down, and night, dark night, approaches. Yet once more perhaps I may see the round red sun before he disappears beneath the horizon. I will climb upon these rocks, for they are higher than the highest trees." Then he continued to climb upon the wet rocks, by seizing upon the roots and creeping plants that grew near them. Water snakes were wriggling about, and the toads seemed to bay at him, yet he reached the highest point before the sun had quite set. Oh, what a beautiful prospect lay before him! The sea, the glorious, magnificent sea, rolling its great billows toward him, while the sun stood like a large altar of fire just at the spot where sea and sky met, and then everything melted together into one glowing tint. The forest sun, where was music in the foaming sea, and his heart joined in the universal anthem. All nature was one great, holy church, of which the trees and the floating clouds were the pillars, flowers, and grass the many colored velvet carpet and the heavens themselves the lofty, vaulted roof. Then the glowing colors faded away, the sun sank to rest, and millions of stars lighted up the expanse like diamond lamps. The king's son stretched forth his arms toward heaven, toward the sea and toward the forest.

Suddenly from a road at the right hand came the poor newly-confirmed boy with the short jacket and the wooden shoes. He, too, had come just in time and had arrived at the same place by a different road. And they ran to meet each other and stood hand in hand in the great temple of nature and poetry. And at once they sounded the invisible holy bell, nature's music, and happy spirits floated around them singing hallelujahs.

Chicago, May 10.—John F. Wallace, general manager of the Illinois Central railroad, this afternoon accepted the appointment of chief engineer of the Panama Canal. He will leave not later than early in June for the Isthmus. His successor as general manager of the Illinois Central will probably be either A. W. Sullivan, I. G. Rawn, or W. J. Harahan.

When the Sap Rises

Weak lungs should be careful. Coughs and colds are dangerous then. One Minute Cough Cure cures coughs and colds and gives strength to the lungs. Mrs. G. E. Fenner, of Marion, Ind., says, "I suffered with a cough until I run down in weight from 148 to 92 lbs. I tried a number of remedies to no avail until I used One Minute Cough Cure. Four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me entirely of the cough, strengthened my lungs and restored me to my normal weight, health and strength. Sold by all druggists."

Preachers Fight.

The Rev. J. B. Cranfill, editor of the Texas Baptist Standard, Dallas, and Rev. S. A. Hayden, editor of the Texas Baptist Herald, also published at Dallas, had a sensational difficulty on board a Cotton Belt train near Texarkana, Ark. Both parties were en route to attend the Southern Baptist convention at Nashville and were on board the same sleeping car. Hayden started into the toilet room of the car, when some one who knew of the bad blood existing between the two men warned him that Cranfill was in there. Hayden went on in, however, and the trouble followed.

Hayden says that Cranfill first abused him with a volley of bitter words and then drew a pistol from his valise and leveled it at him, when he closed in and caught the weapon. In the scuffle it was discharged twice, the charges going out through the roof of the car. When the train reached Texarkana Hayden swore out a warrant against Cranfill, charging him with assault to murder, and he was arrested. He later waived examination and made bond in the sum of $1,000 to answer the next grand jury. Both parties resumed their journey to Nashville.

Queer Things in Bulah.

It is a funny streak of weather when Hickman county fails to come to the front with strange and unprecedented happenings. To prove this assertion the latest comes from Bulah, near Millburn. Last Saturday a mare belonging to Quint Trint gave birth to twin colts. One was a mule and the other a horse colt. As soon as the neighbors learned of the news hundreds of people came to see the new offsprings and are still going. The youngsters are in a healthy looking condition and promise to live many years.—Mayfield Messenger.

Growing Aches and Pains.

Mrs. Josie Sumner, Bremont, Texas, writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. It is the best liniment I ever used. 50c., 50c., $1.00. Sold by Woods & Orme."

Samuel Winn.

Mr. Joseph P. Samuel, of Mattoon, Ky., and Miss Melissa Winn, of this place, were united in wedlock at the Calvin Hotel this morning at 9 o'clock by Rev. C. C. Hall of the M. E. Church.

Many friends witnessed the happy union, who wish them God speed on their life's voyage.

The bride is the amiable and beautiful daughter of T. M. Winn of this city and possesses all the traits to make a happy home.

The groom is an energetic young man from Crittenden county, Ky., and one of the leading teachers there. He is well known in his state and has a host of friends who will congratulate him when he reaches home.

A Beautiful Sermon.

A backwoods preacher down in Arkansas, called upon to preach at a funeral in a wealthy family, where the rooms were banked with flowers and the air heavy with their perfumes, delivered a brief but beautiful sermon. Here it is: "A word to you all. Post mortem praises and love are in the air. People kiss the dead when they never stop to kiss the living; they hover over caskets in hysterical sobs but fail to throw their arms around their loved ones who are fighting the stern battle of life. A word of cheer to the struggling soul in life is worth more than all the roses in Christendom piled high on the casket covers. The dead can not smell the flowers, but the living can scatter them broadcast in their pathway; therefore, pluck out the thorns before it is too late."

An Open Letter.

From the Chapin, S. C., News: Early in the spring my wife and I were taken with diarrhoea and so severe were the pains that we called a physician who prescribed for us, but his medicines failed to give any relief. A friend who had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy on hand gave each of us a dose and we at once felt the effects. I procured a bottle and before using the entire contents were entirely cured. It is a wonderful remedy and should be found in every household. H. C. Bailey, Editor. THE CITY OF ROSES.

How Citizens of Portland Are Beautifying Their Town.

The residents on one of the fine streets of Portland, Ore., have a scheme to enhance the beauty of their locality, and if the plan succeeds they will push the enterprise still further in other districts.

Portland has long been called "The City of Roses," and the inhabitants wish to make the title good, says the Chicago Chronicle. Rosebushes of many different varieties have already been planted along several streets, but the proposition now is to carry on the work on a large scale. Naturally the question comes whether the scheme is practical and if it is not opening the way to vandalism on the part of hoodlums and vicious boys, to say nothing of the mischief of stray horses and dogs.

The good people of Portland need have little fear on this account. There is nothing that has better effect than the moral force of beauty. It works unconsciously, but is none the less effective for that. When it was proposed to hold the World's fair in Chicago there was no little apprehension that it would call to the city hordes of lawless people, that Chicago would be a center of vice on a new and tremendous scale, that the fair grounds would need innumerable policemen to take care of the thieves and that dangerous persons would lurk in the throng of sightseers.

There was nothing more marvelous about the Columbian exposition than the moral order that prevailed. The kindness, the courtesy and the good will which strangers showed to each other were among the most pleasing features of the exhibit, but the absence of anything that hinted of desecration or of roughs and rowdiness was certainly most remarkable.

The explanation given for this happy state of things is the unconscious impression which the beauty and the harmony of the whole affair had upon every one. The most vicious could not but feel the benign influence which was dominant, and for awhile at least they yielded themselves to the spirit of order and beauty.

The tawdry, the spectacular, the loud and excessive, have exactly the contrary effect. They stir the baser impulses and tend to increase immorality. They excite to evil where genuine beauty leads to repose, self command and respect for law and order.

TREE PLANTING.

Kansas City's Excellent System of Caring For Its Trees.

Kansas City is setting an excellent example in city tree planting. Under the control of its city forester the work of planting shade trees and their care have been reduced to a system which is not only resulting in great success as regards the trees and the appearance of the thoroughfares, but is securing the confidence of the property owners and their sympathy in the prosecution of this phase of civic embellishment.

In examining the specifications for the planting and care of trees issued by the department of forestry of the city we opine that many will declare that some of the conditions are too exacting and that under a contract system they would not be maintained. Moreover, many nurserymen would claim them to be unnecessary, particularly in regard to the treatment of the trees after planting, on which the specifications deal forcefully, says Park and Cemetery. It is unquestionably true, however, that it is in the first years of a tree's life in the city that unremitting responsible care tells, for upon this the future of the tree particularly depends.

We do not believe that under the present civic conditions too much stress can be laid on the importance of attention and care to the newly planted street shade trees. Under the circumstances every city tree should be a specimen of its kind, and its best development depends upon the intelligent ministering to its needs which our present knowledge suggests.

Begin at the Head.

"We could make our little town one of the cleanest, healthiest places in the state but for our president," said a Wisconsin man the other day in speaking of town booming. "He is an old doer who is content to stumble over bad sidewalks, wade across muddy streets and look upon dead shade trees and unpainted, tumble-down houses, and his apathy naturally extends to others. He has held the place for three terms and is honest and upright and all that, but this spring he has got to go. We will replace him with a go ahead, progressive man, and we will start a boom and get out of the mud."

It is not that new walks, new streets and a general slicking up cost a village or any individual a great sum of money, but all should pull together, with one aim in view, and the president or mayor can bring it about or kill any scheme in this direction, according to the sort of man he is. In the spring elections let the watchdog be "Boom!" and see that a wide awake man heads the ticket. A town in the mud is a back number, and even the peddlers forget its location.

Winning the City Beautiful.

He wanted a city beautiful.
A city that should be fair.
A city where smoke should never roll in billows upon the air.
He wanted a city where art should be.
A city of splendid halls.
Where culture's touch should appear upon the battlements and walls.
He called for a city beautiful;
He shouted it day by day;
He wanted a city where noise was not.
Where the spirit of art should sway;
He wanted a city that should be fair.
Where filth might never be seen.
And forgot, in spite of the zeal he had.
To keep his back yard clean.

THE WENTZ MURDER.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 12.—Private information from Virginia shows that the body of E. L. Wentz had only recently been placed on the spot where his remains were found.

One of the friends of the family said:

"It is not within the bounds of possibility that the young man's body could have lain in that particular place since the time of disappearance, not only was every inch of ground searched, but the ground was dug up in places and piles of leaves and underbrush carefully raked aside. Not only that, but a thousand men marched shoulder to shoulder so that not an inch of ground could remain uncovered.

"And now the body is found. The body is decomposed but the clothing is in good condition. The leaves have been burned but the garments are unscorched. Even the pistol and eyeglasses are discovered. The family has no doubt that Wentz, either dead or alive, was hidden while the search was hot, and then carried out. All the energies used to find him will now be directed towards tracking down his murderer."

Knoxville, Tenn., May 12.—Warrants were issued yesterday on Silas Ison and Tom Wright, prisoners in jail at Tazewell, Tenn., charging them with the murder of E. L. Wentz, whose body was found near Big Stone Gap last Sunday. The two men were being held in jail on the charge of being fugitives from justice awaiting orders from Virginia. These men were first suspected of being the murderers of Wentz because a riding suit similar to the one worn by Wentz when he went riding was found in their quarters in the mountains. The suit of clothing had blood stains on it in several places, and many think these two men murdered young Wentz.

One of the greatest blessings a modest man can wish for is a good, reliable set of tools. If you are not the happy possessor of such an outfit you can greatly improve the efficiency of those you have by the judicious use of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. They are pleasant to take and agreeable in effect. For sale by Woods & Orme.

Public Improvements.

When you talk to a villager about public improvements his first idea is that it will raise his taxes, and he combats it. A village should be run on the same lines as a private business. A man establishing a factory does not expect to get his capital back at once. He may be obliged to add to his plant half a dozen times over before his profit begins to come in. The tax rate of a town may go up because certain streets have been paved, but the paving has added to the value of all property in that town. It is so with all public improvements, only the big end of the bargain lies with the taxpayer. For every increase of taxes his property is worth more than before. A New York county bonded itself for $25,000 to make public improvements, and within two years the price of real estate was from one-third to one-half higher. It is a question to be looked at from both sides, and the best side is certainly in favor of improvements.

BONE FOOD

Soft and crooked bones mean bad feeding. Call the disease rickets if you want to. The growing child must eat the right food for growth. Bones must have bone food, blood must have blood food and so on through the list.

Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment for soft bones in children. Little doses every day give the stiffness and shape that healthy bones should have.

Bow legs become straighter, loose joints grow stronger and firmness comes to the soft heads.

Wrong food caused the trouble. Right food will cure it. In thousands of cases Scott's Emulsion has proven to be the right food for soft bones in childhood.

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St.,
CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.

Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Surgeon Druggist

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one supreme effort to be well. You do not need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

WINE OF CARDUI

A CHEERFUL FACE.

Next to the sunlight of heaven is a cheerful face. The bright eye, the unclouded brow, the sunny smile—all tell of what dwells within. Who has not felt its electrifying influence? One glance at this face lifts me out of the mists and shadows into the beautiful realms of hope. One cheerful face in the household will keep everything warm and light within. It may be a very plain face but there is something in it we feel, yet can not express, and its cherry smile sends the blood dancing through our veins for very joy. Ah, there is a world of magic in the plain, cheerful face, and we would not exchange it for all the soulless beauty that ever graced the fairest form on earth.—Ex.

TOWN BETTERMENT.

UNSIGHTLY VACANT LOTS AND HOW TO IMPROVE THEM.

Turned Into Miniature Farms In St. Louis, and Flowers and Vegetables Raised—A Way to Get Rid of the Billboard Nuisance.

In every town there are unsightly vacant lots that spoil the appearance of the residential streets, and these could easily be cleaned and beautified if the citizens would take an interest in the matter. Many village improvement societies took up this work last summer, and unsightly spots were beautified with flowers and vines, and in a number of towns the plan of letting the poor cultivate the lots was successfully adopted. In St. Louis seventy boys were put to work on vacant lots and given a practical and scientific training in agriculture. This brilliant idea was conceived in the fertile mind of a bright young woman, Miss Hilrel Stevens. Under her direction it was carried out, and under her tutelage the seventy urchins were taught to plant crops, cultivate them and finally reap their harvest.

The Civic Improvement league, an organization supported by the voluntary contributions of philanthropically inclined citizens and maintained for the object of beautifying St. Louis, was the agency which took up Miss Stevens' idea and afforded her the means of putting it into practical effect. The officers of the league saw that a useful end could be attained by the adoption of Miss Stevens' suggestion. Accordingly the league had the ground on several unsightly vacant lots plowed and provided the boys with hoes, hand implements and seeds. Some of the boys made snug little sums from the sale of their vegetables. All made enough to pay them well for their work.

This season the work will be undertaken on a much more comprehensive scale. Where seventy boys found useful employment and pleasant and healthful recreation in tilling the soil last summer there will be many hundreds this season. The Civic Improvement league was so well pleased with results achieved that it will provide a much larger fund to keep up the work next year. The boys will be supplied with better implements, and an earlier start will be made. As soon as the frost thaws out of the ground this spring half a dozen pieces of vacant property will be plowed and turned over to the use of the juvenile farmers.

The work begun under the inspiration and direction of Miss Stevens is certainly worthy of the highest encouragement and commendation. It takes up the boys and gives them useful employment and keeps them out of mischief. They get the fresh air and develop brawn by swinging the hoe. Those who have the best interests of the idle boys of a town at heart are fondly hoping that the ends will justify the means and that in the years to come vacant lots can be made to yield not only bountiful crops of vegetables, but that upon them will be developed a sturdy manhood.

In talking of town improvement recently an Atlanta citizen said:

"Did you ever stop to think of what vast benefit the vacant lot could be? It is of but little use now except to the billboard. The big high board fence is put around it, and immediately the man with a placard, the man with a bucket of paint and a brush, the circus man, with his flaring posters, and the theatrical man, with his highly colored paper limbs and lingerie—all these and many more are quickly on the scene to add to the grotesqueness of the defacement. Behind the billboard the lot is merely a resting place for old tin cans, barrel hoops, boxes, brickbats, rags and other trash, and so in a way we find the vacant lot becoming a public nuisance.

"Now, with the exercise of a little taste, what a change we could make in the situation! We will tear down the high board fence. We will sweep away the cans, boxes and all other trash. We will sod the lot and give it a good rolling surface, and here and there will add a plant of some tougher kind just to break the flatness of the scene. Here we have a small landscape right in the heart of the town. It is restful to the eye. It allows the air to circulate more freely. It adds to the comfort, health and pleasure of the citizen.

"If I had my way this is exactly what would happen to all the vacant lots. I would make the owners fix them up with pretty grasses, and I would have ordinances passed which would protect the owners in whatever work they might do in this way. It would be against the law to build a wooden inclosure around a vacant lot. In this way I would get rid of the billboard nuisance."

A bloody fight, one that reminded the citizens of the scrimmages galore when the old river town was at its zenith—occurred in Weston Friday evening, with two men named Prezelle and Edmondson, as principals. They had just made a trip up the river in a skiff, and were pretty well tanked up on Caseyville chain lightning. As they were coming back these negative and positive forces created a storm which ended in a fight when they reached Weston. Edmondson hit Prezelle with an oar and cut a big gash across the right temple, rendering him senseless. He is still living and may recover.
